

Healthy Aging Council

UNT Health Science Center • EAD 802
3500 Camp Bowie Blvd. • Fort Worth, TX 76107
healthyagingcouncil.org

Dear Neighbor,

As a long time Fort Worth resident, I am continually amazed with the wonderful resources available for our citizens. One of the jewels in Fort Worth that I've discovered is the UNT Health Science Center, where important work in Geriatric Education and Aging and Alzheimer's Disease research is happening.

To connect the community with the Health Science Center's powerful resources, the Healthy Aging Council (HAC) is a bridge toward partnership for creating a better quality of life for our valued seniors. In addition, the council provides education opportunities for all of us interested in becoming empowered by new knowledge of the advancements in care for healthy aging. Our council embodies the well-known civic pride in our area, and is composed of people who want to give something back to the community.

We are aware that healthy aging is everyone's goal, but with a tremendous number of our citizens approaching older age, we realize we cannot do it alone. Community involvement is crucial in order for us to ensure a good quality of life for everyone.

I'm proud to send you the attached report, which highlights our success in these areas. I think you will be impressed with the great work going on at the Health Science Center, and I encourage you to join us. You can help by being involved in the council, attending presentations, spreading the word, and through your financial contributions.

Thank you for being a part of the Healthy Aging Council and the UNT Health Science Center.

Sincerely,

Michele Reynolds
Chair, Healthy Aging Council